Dismissal of CBI cases for want of evidences

3613. SHRI C.M. IBRAHIM: Will the PRIME MINISTER be pleased to state:

(a) the number of cases filed by CBI during the last five years have been dismissed for want of evidence;

(b) whether in some of the cases, the courts had to express regrets on insufficient grounds or lack of substantive evidence; and

(c) Whether Government propose to modify the law to prevent frivolous prosecution of the so called accused for years together on insufficient grounds?

THE MINISTER OF STATE OF DEPARTMENT OF PERSONNEL AND TRAINING AND DEPARTMENT OF PENSIONS AND PENSIONERS' WELFARE OF THE MINISTRY OF PERSONNEL, PUBLIC GRIEVANCES AND PENSIONS (SHRIMATI VASUNDHARA RAJE):(a) During the last five years viz. 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998 & 1999, 643 cases resulted in acquittal, out of the charge-sheets filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation.

(b) During the last five year, the Courts had passed strictures in 8 cases.

(c) Cases are registered by CBI in accordance with the legal provisions and investigated under the close supervision of senior officers. Legal advice is obtained wherever required. A Charge-sheet is filed in a court of law only where sufficient evidence is available to prosecute the accused after thorough scrutiny of available evidence. Due care is taken to avoid frivolous prosecution or prosecuting anyone against whom there are insufficient grounds.
